MOVEMENT TO CHECK AUTO ACCIDENTS

French Government Grants Mayors Full Police Powers to Regulate Speed of Machines.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS ASKED.

Task for Manufacturers Is to Ren der Bursting of a Tire as Little Dangerous as Possible.

SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE NEW YORK HERALD AND THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC. Paris, Aug. 20 .- (Copyright, 1902.)-Despite contradictory statements of the machinists the opinion among automobilists is that the original cause of the Fair accident was the bursting of a tire.

This raises the interesting question, whether some means cannot be found of modifying the steering gear so that, even if a tire bursts, the machine shall no swerve violently. M. Deutsche, who is still confined to his bed from the effects of his recent automobile accident, tells me that an accident similar to that of the Fairs occurred a few days ago to his machinist through the front tire bursting. The machinist, a very prudent and experienced au-tomobilist, was fortunately going only twelve miles an hour, and no one was hurt, but the automobile was upset. How to render the bursting of a tire as of the day. The general sentiment among automo-bilists is in favor of actually limiting the speed to the capacities of automobiles for road work, M. Maurice Farmans observes that he is having built for his own personal use a machine unable to go faster than fifty kilometers an hour. This movement is the result of the Fair accident. It is doubtful, however, whether manufacturers will refuse orders for ma-chines capable of a hundred or more kilo-meters an hour.

little dangerous as possible is the question

Government Takes Action.

Estimates indicate that there are 8,000 automobiles now in the Department of the Siene. Three thousand, three hundred and eighty-eight of these are registered as capable of going more than thirty kilometers an hour.

Recent automobile accidents have led to the publication of a Government decree granting Mayors throughout France full police power to regulate the speed of automobiles. This action is the result of many complaints that the existing laws are not enforced by the police in the neighborhood of fashionable watering places, which have been particularly dangerous lately for those using the roads.

been particularly dangerous lately for those using the roads.

The fifth automobile exposition will be held in the Grand Palais on December 19 to 25. In reply to a circular letter recently issued, Gustav Rives, the Commissioner General, has received so many communications that he fears the building may not be large enough, and the prospects are that there will be a rush for space.

Chauffeurs are still talking about the great speed made in the kilometer trials at Beauville, on Tuesday. The general belief is that a speed of 160 kilometers an hour can be reached before long-perhaps before the season is closed. It is probable that M. Erpollet will attempt to reduce the figures, because he is dissatisfied with the trial at Beauville in which a slight accident destroyed his chances.

LAST OF ANCIENT "NEW INN." London County Council Is Tearing Down the Property.

SPECIAL BY CABLE. London, Aug. 30.—New Inn, one of the most curious old landmarks of London, is now being torn down to make room for the coming Central London avenue. The prop-erty was purchased by the London County Council for $785,000.

Of this sum $120,000 was paid to the "an-cients of New Inn." These curious individuals were old lawyers who, by some ancient process and by reason of long residence in the inn, had acquired certain obscure rights in fee simple in the property. They had to be bought out before anything could be done toward tearing down the property. Another portion of the purchase price went to the Middle Temple, and the balance to the trustees of the inn for charitable purposes. New Inn was back of Clements Inn, where Shakespeare is believed to have lived, and which is mentioned in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," although the present Clements Inn is a modern building.

New Inn was so hidden from the highways of traffic by two narrow and shabby streets that shut it from the Strand that its very existence was almost unknown to multitudes daily working near by. It was an inn, or hostel, of Chancery; in olden times a school of law, where scholars came for training for the four Inns of Court Tradition has it that this was the oldest inn of Chancery. the inn, had acquired certain obscure rights Tradition has it that this was the oldest inn of Chancery.

The demolition of New Inn marks a further lessening of the old nine inns of Chancery. Thavies and Furnival inns have disappeared; several of the others have been destroyed in part or turned from their original purpose. Lyon's Inn had its site occupied by the Globe Theater.

Staple Inn now stands almost alone, with its ancient buildings, mediaeval courtyard and old customs, as a type of a once-familiar feature of central London.

THOUSANDS EAGER TO GO TO SOUTH AFRICA

One Member of Commons Receives 300 Letters a Month From Young Men and Women.

SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE NEW YORK HERALD AND THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC.
London, Aug. 20.—(Copyright, 1902.)—
Among the scions of noble English familles that are likely to be heard of in future, if early promises are fulfilled, is the young Marquis of Graham, heir to the Dukedom of Montrose. Since his return from South Africa he has been speaking a good deal on social, commercial and administrative matters in a manner that has attracted a great deal of attention and favorable comment.

Now I learn that he has determined to return to South Africa shortly, to try to secure a seat in the House of Assembly of Cape Colony, with the object of working for British commerce and the development of the shipping interest. If all the members of Parliament have If all the members of Parliament have had the same experience as Mr. J. Stroyan there is evidently no ground to fear regarding the poopling of South Africa with a British race. Mr. Stroyan is receiving letters at the rate, he says, of 300 a month, from young men and women eager to go to South Africa. If each member of the Commons were having a similar experience, this would mean 201.009 young people a month making efforts to obtain employment in Great Britain's recently acquired countries in South Africa, or, at the same rate, 2, 412,000 a year.

EDWARD VII HAS VISITED ISLE OF MAN TWO TIMES.

London, Aug. 30.-(Copyright, 1902.)-Some of the papers have been saying that, for the first time in his history, the Monarch has visited the Isle of Man, but King Edward was once there with his father and mother. The King himself has said that he remembered that, when he was a boy of 7 years, his father landed at Ramsey, though he was not allowed to do so. This speaks well for his Majesty's memory. For as a matter of fact, he was some seven weeks short of 7 years old at the time referred to.

After being tossed about all through the night with what Queen Victoria described as "considerable rockings," the old royal yacht Albert and Victoria anchored in Ramsey Bay on the morning of September 29. The Queen wrote about it:

"The sea was dreadfully rough. I was very ill. Albert, however, stood it perfectly and the children tolerably."

It was doubtless sea sickness that kept the Queen and the children on board, while the King consort paid a two hours' visit to Ramsey. King Edward was evidently not then the sailor he has since become.

"Thank you; this will bring me luck." the King said to a man who threw a sprig of white heather into the carriage. It is not the first bloom of good omen that has smiled upon the royal family. It did so when the late Emperor Frederick, then Crown Prince of Prussia, was wooing the Empress Frederick, then the Princess royal of England, at Balmoral. There was no manner of doubt in the hearts of the young people as to what they felt toward each other, but it was a case of "didn't like to tell." One day when they were out in the hills with Queen Victoria and Prince Albert, the wooer from Germany happened upon a little sprig of white heather. He plucked it and offered it to the blushing Princess. Within a few days thek betrothal was announced. of the papers have been saying that, for the first time in his history, the Monarch

Cold, Wet Summer Has Almost Ruined Proprietors of Seaside Hotels and Boarding-Houses.

PECIAL BY CABLE TO THE NEW YORK HERALD AND THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC. London, Aug. 39,-(Copyright, 1902.)-The grumble about the weather continues unabated. True, there has not been so much rain during the last week as there had been for some time, but the dull, leaden skies, with brief and fitful bursts of sunshine, make it most depressing living in town. I mentioned last week how the seaside hotel proprietors and boarding-house keepers were reduced almost to tears by the lack of custom this season. Elsewhere conditions seem to be similar. Reserts up the Thames tell the same tale. The usual frequenters of these picturesque villages are conspicuous by their absence. Never have the boatmen and landladies had such a mis-windows tell stray visitors they can take their choice.

From my Scotch correspondent, too, I learn that people are staying at the hotels, and hydropathics are sitting, shivering indoors, dressed in thick tweeds, instead of driving about in summer style. Coaches and loch steamers, which in ordinary years are crowded with sea tourists cager to see the beauties of the highlands, are now almost empty, for even excursionists do not care to get soaked for no better reward than a view of rain and mist.
